Bio & Education

¡Hola! This is my 15th year teaching Spanish. I graduated with a bachelor's degree in Spanish and Bilingual Education and a masters degree in Counseling from UTSA, University of Texas in San Antonio. I was born in Guatemala, Central America and Spanish is my first language. This is why I understand the process of learning a second language. It requires discipline and a passion to learn. Please provide your student with plenty of opportunities to practice their Spanish; reading books and magazines, listening to radio, watching TV, Internet, music, watching commercials, etc. Let's have fun while learning!

Activities/Hobbies

One of my passions is to encourage students to pursue higher education. My three children have graduated from college and hold jobs that they enjoy. If you have the time, take your child to a college campus. It will show them how much you value their education and that you believe in them. Hopefully, this will encourage them to excel and graduate from high school and to pursue a college career. My other passion is to travel. I love to learn about different cultures and how people interact with each other and the surrounding environment. Also, I like to go on mission trips and help other children to complete their education. My family and I work together with messengers-of-hope.org to provide needy children with basic education.
