Bio & Education

I graduated from Hebron High School in 2005 and then went to Lamar University for 2 years on a golf scholarship. After two years I realized I wanted to teach and started looking into figuring out what level I wanted to teach at, and then finished up my education at Tarleton State University with a Bachelors Degree in Communication Science. I love teaching and coaching and consider these two things to be a main passion in my life. I also enjoy helping animals at shelters, going out to play golf myself, all sports (especially football), and family time.
