PATIENCE LEBLANC Named 2017 TEXAS History Teacher of the Year

Frisco, Texas (July 25, 2017): PATIENCE LEBLANC, an eighth grade United States history teacher at FOWLER MIDDLE SCHOOL, Frisco Independent School District, has been named the 2017 TEXAS History Teacher of the Year, an award presented annually by the Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History, the nation's leading organization dedicated to K-12 American history education.

Inaugurated in 2004, the History Teacher of the Year Award highlights the crucial importance of history education by honoring exceptional American history teachers from elementary school through high school. The award honors one K-12 teacher from each state, the District of Columbia, Department of Defense schools and US Territories. In fall 2017, the National History Teacher of the Year will be selected from the pool of state winners.

LeBlanc received her bachelor's degree at Texas A & M University in 1998, and in 2016 she completed a master's degree in history from Texas Woman's University. Because she loves learning, LeBlanc considers herself the chief learner in her classroom. Her passion for teaching history is evident as LeBlanc dresses as historical characters to enhance student interest and to make learning fun. She is known for teaching students about the United States Constitution and relating the learning to their lives. LeBlanc is a leader in the district, writing curriculum, presenting staff development, and leading the history team at Fowler. For many years, she has had a Citizen Bee team, and when she doesn't, she serves as a volunteer at the regional Citizen Bee. LeBlanc is also a leader in both the state and nation, serving as a forum monitor for the James Madison Legacy Project for the Center for Civic Education and as a consultant to the State Bar of Texas Law-Related Education both as a Hatton Sumners and a We the People trainer. As one member of the selection committee stated, "Patience LeBlanc is a true professional."

In addition to a $1,000 honorarium and an award ceremony in Texas, Patience LeBlanc's school library will receive a core archive of American history books and Gilder Lehrman educational materials. LeBlanc will also receive an invitation to a 2018 Gilder Lehrman Teacher Seminar, a weeklong program that offers teachers daily discussions with eminent historians, visits to historic sites, and hands-on work with primary sources.

The National History Teacher of the Year award will be presented by Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Eric Foner at a ceremony in New York City on November 8, 2017. Past presenters at the ceremony include the Honorable Sandra Day O'Connor, Good Morning America's Robin Roberts, First Lady Laura Bush, former US Secretary of Education Arne Duncan, and former New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg.

Team News

This six weeks, sixth grade social studies students will share aspects of their own culture with their classes through a "Bring a Bag of Culture" presentation. Students will then begin their journey around the world with the study of the geography, history and cultures of North America. Science classes will study chemistry for the next six weeks! We will learn about elements, compounds and mixtures. We will study the periodic table and understand the difference between metals, nonmetals, and metalloids. Finally, we will observe physical and chemical properties and changes and calculate density. In math classes, students are doing a great job at adjusting to the rigor of sixth grade math! Next, we will focus on fractions and decimals. We will be comparing and ordering all rational numbers, as well as focusing on the operations. In 6th grade ILA, we are learning about story elements, figurative language, and a personal narrative based on our Mind Map. In grammar, we are working on nouns and prepositions.

7th

Our 7th grade Falcons are off to a successful start! Texas history students began the year learning about the diverse geography of the great state of Texas. 7th grade historians also learned about the many Native American tribes that once called Texas home. We are now learning about Spanish explorers who first made contact with the Texas coastline in 1519 which sparked the interest for future European exploration of the Americas. Science students are beginning a new unit of study, "The Cell." PreAP students are crafting research plans for their ISEF/IRP projects and beginning to work in their log books. Our math students are learning how to use proportions to solve problems. Please involve your student when calculating tax, savings, or tips! ILA students recently completed revising a personal narrative about a choice. Next up, our ILA classes will be studying background information on Greek mythology as students prepare to write and illustrate their own myth. Our 7th grade students are proving to be busy and avid learners!

It is difficult to believe that the first grading period has already blown by us! Since the beginning of the school year, math classes have taken on the real number system, the Pythagorean Theorem, and transformations of geometric shapes. Next up, we will explore: the similarities of triangles, linear and angle relationships, proportional vs. non-proportional relationships, as well as dive into algebraic equations. ILA students are writing a definition essay using various texts and writing strategies to answer this question: What defines a hero? Then, we will explore our own values in the dystopian novel The Giver by Lois Lowry. For Pre-AP students, assigned novel copies are available for students to read, but most reading will be completed outside of class. The Fowler scientists will be ending a unit on the universe and Earth, sun, and moon relationships. As we rocket to the end of this unit, we will make re-entry into Earth as we start talking about how the Earth, sun, and moon relationship helps dictate weather patterns here on Earth. All the future meteorologists have something to look forward to this marking period! PAP students don't forget to check your teacher's website to keep current with IRP/ISEF grading checkpoints. Finally, our 8th Grade U.S. History classes will be declaring independence and fighting the American Revolution in the next couple of weeks. Using art, primary sources, and flipped videos, students will experience the fight for independence. When students are out sick, encourage them to be proactive with contacting teachers and collecting any notes or assignments that they missed. Please remind your child to check HAC for grades and attend tutorials for additional assistance. We are off to a great start! As always, keep soaring, Falcons!

October 30th-November 10th - Small World Angel Collection

Fowler Middle School is participating in a service project to sponsor over 30 "Angels" during this holiday season! "Angels" are less fortunate children in this community.

We are asking for a monetary donation (cash only), and our National Junior Honor Society students will purchase the gifts using the donations.

At each grade level, classes are competing for the opportunity to participate in a Faculty-Student Basketball Competition. The class at each grade level that raises the most money per student for our angels will be able to play a game of basketball against their teachers during the school day in front of the entire school.

Please send your cash donations to school with your child.

Your child will take the donation to his/her MATH TEACHER. Please send all monetary gifts (cash only) by Friday, November 10th.

Thank you in advance for your donation. We are excited about making this project a success!

November 16, 2017 - 8th grade Career Day

8th grade students will have the opportunity to learn about many diverse career opportunities as they start to consider their future goals and dreams. We are asking 8th graders to dress professionally on this important day.

We love having Fowler parents and other community members join us to talk about their careers. If you are interested, or if you know of someone who has an interesting career who would be able to speak on this day, please contact Andrea Williams at Williaan@friscoisd.org.

There are times when it is difficult to tell when your child is too ill to go to school. Sometimes there is a worry that he or she will miss important schoolwork or perfect attendance. A sick child cannot learn effectively and is unable to participate in classes in a meaningful way. Keeping a sick child home prevents the spread of illness in the school community and allows the child an opportunity to rest and recover.

Here are the FISD guidelines to help you make that decision:

FEVER: A student with a temperature of greater than 100 degrees will be excluded from school. They must be below 100 for a full 24 hours without any fever reducing medications before returning to school. A child with a fever suppressed by Tylenol or Motrin is still contagious as these medications only temporarily decrease the temperature and do not treat the underlying illness.

PINK EYE (CONJUNCTIVITIS): Students with red, painful, itchy eyes, especially with discharge/crusting, should have a medical evaluation. This is very contagious, and students must be excluded from school until they have completed 24 hours of prescription antibiotic eye medication.

VOMITING AND DIARRHEA: A student with vomiting and diarrhea should be excluded from school.

Prevention is the best medicine for keeping children healthy. The following suggestions are ways to help keep your child well:

- Proper hygiene. Good hand washing techniques should be taught and encouraged. It is probably the most important thing you can do to prevent the spread of germs. Coughing or sneezing into your sleeve is a great way to decrease the spread of illnesses.
- Proper nutrition is not only a must for good health it is also necessary for the body to function so the child is better able to concentrate and learn.
- Physical activity should be done at least 3 times a week.
- Immunizations are also important in promoting a child's wellbeing. With flu season upon us and expected to peak after the holidays, now is the time to get the flu vaccine.
- An annual age appropriate physical, including a dental and vision exam, is recommended for maintaining good health.

Working together we will be able to have a healthier school environment for our kids to learn and succeed!

Mrs. Silver's Technology Class Information

All the students are having a good time and learning a lot in the computer classes at Fowler. The following is a summary of the learning that has been occurring in the classes.

Multimedia I: Terri Silver

The students have reviewed their file management skills; they have created a Fairy Tale PowerPoint presentation using the 4 different types of animation they learned the last few weeks. The presentations were then shown to the class. Now the students are learning how to use PhotoShop Elements. They love this software. They are learning how to edit photos, create and enhance text, as well as lots of other fun effects they create with this software. If you have any old or damaged photos at home, they should be able to make them look like new!

Multimedia II: Terri Silver

The students also reviewed file management. They have created CD covers using PhotoShop Elements, used the digital cameras to take pictures of themselves, then edited them and combined images on the canvas to create realistic photos. It was a great learning experience for them! Color is another topic we are reviewing this year – as it is important to understand the psychology of color in order to apply it to whatever you are creating. Next, we will be back in PSE creating patterns and textures. Stay tuned for more fun information from this class.

Animation: Terri Silver

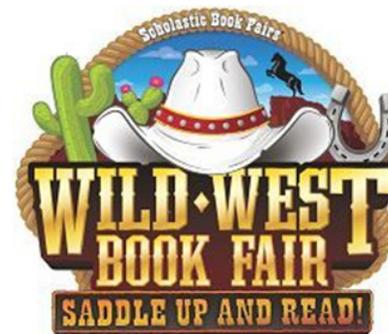

Again, the skill of proper file management has been reinforced. The students have been practicing sketching characters for projects, drawing eyes, noses, mouths, etc. They had very interesting discussions regarding the topic of copyright and seemed to be very interested in the information. They worked in groups to research the history of animation and chose an animator to research. Then, working with their group, they put together a presentation to show to the class about what they learned. For a hands on experience, the students are creating a simple animation using the Sock Puppet app. Afterwards, they will create an original character to use in projects throughout the year. We are starting 2 animations using FlipBook software. I know I am looking forward to meeting all the characters and viewing their animations; they should be very interesting.
