“Our goal in working with the students at the Frisco ISD CTE Center is to provide a process structure for their project that is very similar to one that we utilize in our office at Stantec,” said Trey Laird, principal with Stantec Architecture. “We hope that through exploring a real-world design project such as a memorial monument, students learn to employ several different skill sets in articulating a design response that can have a lasting community impact in Frisco.”
